Introduction

Courses in the Department of Political Science (POLS) introduce students to fundamental issues in the political process, conditions that create the need for governments, structure and procedures of governments, control of governments and enforcement of responsibility, and relationships among governments. The department prepares students to assume the duties of citizenship; provides special knowledge and skills useful in public service, law, business, and other careers; and lays a foundation for the scholarly study of government and politics.

The department also has two interdepartmental majors: political science and economics, and political science and philosophy.

The department has a general minor in political science, and one interdepartmental minor: political science and economics.

Requirements for these options are listed below.

Majors

Major in Political Science
Interdepartmental Major in Political Science and Economics
Interdepartmental Major in Political Science and Philosophy

Major in Political Science

Requirements
Students must complete 27 credit hours in political science, including:

1. At least 15 credit hours of 300-level political science courses.
2. At least one course in American politics or public policy, law, and administration (Y301 through Y320, Y324-Y326, Y373, Y390, Y394).
3. At least one course in comparative politics or international relations (Y331-Y372, Y374-Y376).
4. At least one course in political theory and methodology (Y379, Y381 through Y388, Y391, Y395).
5. One Y396 seminar or its equivalent.

No more than 6 credit hours of 100-level courses and 9 combined credit hours of Y200 and Y401 (courses with variable topics) may be included in the 27 credit hours. Note: Y200 and Y401 may be repeated only once for credit. Students must complete the degree requirements of the College of Arts and Sciences

Interdepartmental Major in Political Science and Economics

Purpose
The interdepartmental major in political science and economics explores important issues arising in both the public and private sectors and provides students with the basic theoretical tools necessary to investigate these issues. Note: Any economics course may be replaced by the honors equivalent. Also, students in the Liberal Arts and Management Program may substitute approved sections of L316 (LAMP Junior Seminar) for E370.

Requirements
Students must meet the following course requirements for a total of 42 credit hours:

1. Math requirements: Finite Math M118 and Calculus M119 or M211. (These courses do not count toward the 42 credit hours required for the major.)
2. Economics E201, E202, E321, and at least three additional economics courses. Two of these three courses must be numbered above E321. E175, E370, E496, and Y388 cannot be used to meet this requirement.
   a. One course chosen from Political Science Y204, Y205, Y210, Y303, Y391, or Y394;
   b. At least 15 credit hours in political science in courses not used from above list or in any of the following courses: Y200, Y301- Y307, Y326, Y343, Y346, Y350, Y376, Y395, Y401, Y481, or Y499.

Special Considerations

1. Students meeting requirements 1-3 above with a total of 39 credit hours will be allowed to use 3 credit hours toward the major from preapproved sections of COAS E104 (Topics) courses. A list of preapproved sections of COAS E104 (Topics) is available each semester in the Departments of Economics and Political Science.
2. No more than 6 credit hours of honors thesis credit (3 credit hours from Economics E499, and 3 credit hours from Political Science Y499) may be counted toward the major.
3. A maximum of 3 credit hours of Political Science Y484 (for teaching interns only) may be counted toward the major.

Students must also complete the degree requirements in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Return to Majors

Interdepartmental Major in Political Science and Philosophy

Requirements
Students must take a minimum of 42 credit hours, with a minimum of 18 credit hours in each department. Students must also complete the degree requirements in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Political Science

1. At least 18 credit hours, with no more than two 100-level courses counted in political science.
2. At least one 300-level course in each of the following areas:
   b. Comparative Politics or International Relations (Y331-Y372, Y374-Y376).
3. At least two 300-level courses in political theory selected from Y379, and Y381 through Y388.

Philosophy

1. At least 18 credit hours, with no more than one 100-level course counting toward the minimum and with at least 12 credit hours at or above the 300 level.
2. At least one course above the 100 level in each of the following three areas:
   a. Ethics and value theory
   b. History of philosophy
   c. Epistemology and metaphysics
3. One of the following logic courses: P150 or P250.

Interdepartmental Honors Program in Political Science and Philosophy

Students with a minimum cumulative grade point average of 3.3 and minimum 3.5 in political science are eligible for the interdepartmental honors program in political science and philosophy, which culminates with an honors thesis. The honors program has two requirements:

1. One honors thesis*
2. One of the following pairs of courses:
   POLS Y480 Colloquium and Y499 Honors Thesis or
   PHIL P498 Senior Seminar and P499 Honors Thesis

The choice of the pair depends on whether the student's honors director is a political science or philosophy faculty member. The thesis will be judged by an honors committee that consists of members from both departments.

*Although the thesis will typically involve topics and issues from both disciplines, exceptions will be allowed with the approval of the directors of undergraduate studies from both departments.

Minor in Political Science

Requirements
Students must complete the following:

1. A total of 15 College of Arts and Sciences credit hours, of which at least 9 shall be at the 300 level.
2. At least two courses in one of the following blocks of courses and at least one course from one of the other two blocks.
   a. American politics, public policy, law, and administration (Y301 through Y320, Y324 through Y326, Y373, Y390, Y394).
   b. Comparative politics or international relations (Y331 through Y372, Y374 through Y376).
   c. Political theory and methodology (Y379, Y381 through Y388, Y391, Y395).
3. Only three hours of credit in Y481 may be counted toward the minor.
4. At least 9 credit hours of the above courses must be taken in residence at the Bloomington campus.

Interdepartmental Minor in Political Science and Economics

The interdepartmental minor in economics and political science introduces students to important issues arising in both the public and private sectors.

Requirements
Students must meet the following course requirements for a total of 18 credit hours:

1. Economics E201, E202, and one additional economics course, E175, E370, E496, and Y398 cannot be used to meet this requirement.
2. One course chosen from Political Science Y204, Y205, Y210, Y303, Y391, or Y394;
3. At least 8 credit hours in political science in courses not used in numbers 1 or 2 above or in any of the following courses: Y200, Y301- Y303, Y326, Y343, Y346, Y350, Y376, Y396, Y401, Y481, or Y499.

Note: This minor is not available to students choosing a major in economics or political science.

Departmental Honors Program

The Department of Political Science makes a special effort to give outstanding students opportunities appropriate to their abilities and interests. In addition to a number of topics courses and small seminars, the department offers a formal program leading to a B.A. with honors.

10/2/2006
Admission to the program usually occurs at the end of the sophomore year. Students are eligible to apply if they have completed at least 9 credit hours in political science, including at least one 300-level course, with a minimum grade point average of 3.5 in political science and a minimum overall GPA of 3.3 in university courses. Applicants must complete an application and meet with the faculty honors director to discuss the student's proposed program. To attain a degree with honors, students must:

1. Present an acceptable honors thesis and defend it before a faculty committee. There are two paths to the thesis:
   a. The student must take 1-3 credit hours of Y480 (usually in the second semester of the junior year) followed by 3-12 hours of Y499 over one or two semesters (usually in the senior year). Total amount of credit to be determined by the chairperson of the student's honors committee.
   b. The student arranges with a faculty member to enroll in a graduate seminar. The paper for that seminar serves as the basis for the honors thesis and the instructor becomes the chairperson of the student's honors committee.

2. During the fall semester of the year in which the thesis is being completed and defended, the student must enroll in the "Honors Proseminar" section of Y480 (1 credit hour). The honors thesis will be written under the direction of a faculty supervisor (chairperson of the student's honors committee) and at least one additional committee member.

Any exceptions to the above requirements must be approved by the faculty honors director.

Workshop in Political Theory and Policy Analysis

The Workshop in Political Theory and Policy Analysis develops courses that provide students with an opportunity to relate theoretical analysis of contemporary policy issues to empirical field research. Students in both graduate and undergraduate courses participate in the design and implementation of small-scale, policy-relevant research projects. These projects help students gain practical experience in reasoning through policy problems, in conducting research, and in analyzing data. Students may also use data collected in these studies for their own research, such as class assignments and honors theses. High-quality work may be considered for publication in the workshop publication series. The subject matter of the courses varies from year to year, but a consistent theme is the comparative study of alternative institutional arrangements for dealing with public sector problems.

In addition to the development of specific courses, the workshop holds weekly colloquia where faculty and students at Indiana University and guest speakers address theoretical and policy problems of mutual interest. Reprints of recent studies in the workshop's publication series are available to students without charge.

Further information, including listings of current course offerings and publications, is available from the Workshop in Political Theory and Policy Analysis at 513 N. Park Avenue, Bloomington, Indiana 47405, (812) 855-0441.

Poynter Center

Faculty
Director Professor Richard E. Miller (Religious Studies)

Introduction

The Poynter Center for the Study of Ethics and American Institutions seeks to foster the examination and discussion of ethical issues in our profession, public, and national life and to foster the examination and discussion of ethical issues. The center's approach is informed by the spirit of the humanities, attempting to understand and evaluate our society, rather than merely to describe it. It has directed its attention to political institutions, the legal system, science and technology, medicine, the media, the military, the business corporation, organized religion, the professions, and the academy.

The center's work is conducted through a variety of efforts—sponsoring conferences and seminars; publishing monographs and other papers; bringing distinguished visitors to Bloomington and to other college and university campuses in Indiana; and teaching courses for undergraduates, graduate students, and external audiences.

Further information is available at the Poynter Center office, 618 E. Third Street, Bloomington, IN 47405, (812) 855-0261, poynter@indiana.edu.

Introduction

The Department of Psychology (PSY) offers a major in psychology leading to the B.A. or B.S. degree and provides course work for undergraduates who wish to satisfy distribution requirements. As a science, psychology seeks to understand the basic principles by which living organisms adapt their behavior to the changing physical and social environments in which they live. The breadth of the discipline, with its links to the humanities, mathematics, and other social and natural sciences, encourages the development of broad problem-solving skills through exposure to research methodology in statistical analysis and contributes to the development of communicative skills.

Psychological knowledge, techniques and skill obtained in the B.A. and B.S. programs are applied in many careers and provide background for students entering graduate work in psychology and related areas, as well as the professions of medicine, dentistry, law, and business.

Major in Psychology—B.A.

Purpose

The B.A. program provides a broad coverage of modern scientific psychology and the strategies and tactics by which knowledge is acquired in this field. The B.A. program offers the student considerable flexibility in choosing...
