continuum of intervention from prevention through intervention and future planning, out of home placement considerations, and the issues impacting particular oppressed and underserved populations. The focus of this course will be on how to work effectively with clients and achieve the goals of safety, permanency, and well-being.

S633 Child Welfare Practice II: Working with Diverse and Transitioning Families (3 cr.) This course will focus on the experiences of children and families in the child welfare system. Content will include interventions with families through all stages of change including preparation for change, separation and loss, the changes family system, reconstitution as children transition into a family, and adolescents transitioning into independent living. Content will include the impact on families when the nature of family development is disrupted. Special considerations will be given to various family types including adoptive, foster care, kinship, extended, single parent, multigenerational, and homosexual families. Practice content will emphasize strengths, family-centered approaches, and include knowledge and skill development to help children and families work through their family and personal crisis and grief in a timely manner to achieve permanency for children in safe and nurturing environments within 12 months after separation.

S634 Community-Based Practice with Children and Families (3 cr.) This course will examine the development and implementation of a wide range of prevention and intervention strategies provided at the community level. Special attention will be given to the philosophy of empowerment-oriented and client-driven service models. The course will explore the community as a resource and discuss strategies of collaboration and advocacy to enhance the well-being of children and families. Issues explored will include services for families and children to prevent out-of-home placement or involvement in other formal child protection/juvenile justice services, such as models of community-building, youth development, and family group conferencing/restorative justice. This course will also provide content on mutual aid and self-help groups to support and educate children and families on issues such as parenting, domestic violence, and abuse.

S661 Executive Leadership Practice (3 cr.) This course addresses administrative management, leadership, and supervisory skills necessary for leadership practice. Included are staffing, supervision, evaluation, and termination; working with boards and volunteers, leadership styles, strategic planning, and current best practices in administration.

S662 Fiscal Management, Marketing and Resource Development (3 cr.) This course consists of three modules designed to develop core skills in fiscal management (including issues of budgeting, understanding balance sheets, audits, and theories of accounting); resource development (including fund raising, grant writing, and personnel policies); and marketing for social work leaders.

S665 Leveraging Organizations, Communities, and Political Systems (3 cr.) This course focuses on the knowledge and skills essential for understanding, analyzing, and application in organizations, communities, and political systems. Such knowledge and skills include, but are not limited to: organizational theories, structures, and processes; examination and application of rural, urban, and virtual community models, theories, and practices; and understanding and involvement in political, social action, and social change interventions and empowerment practices.

S665 Designing Transformational Programs (3 cr.) This course focuses on alternative, transformational models of strategic community, and program planning. Featured development models center on collaboration, cultural competence, empowerment, and social justice. The course will include a apprenticeship in grant writing, evaluation of funding and other resources, and philanthropic trends within a variety of social service delivery systems. It will move beyond a focus on the technology of program development to examine planning as a vehicle for designing organizational, community, and social change.

S672 Families, Theories, and Culture (3 cr.) This course is designed to enhance student ability to assess and intervene with families in a culturally sensitive way from a strengths-oriented perspective. It examines the cultural context of families from a multidimensional perspective including race, ethnicity, age, gender, sexual orientation, religion, education, economics, and regional background. The course examines major theories of family intervention and discusses how clients can apply family theory into practice situations.

S673 Couples and Families Interventions I (3 cr.) This course provides in-depth discussion of ways to intervene with individuals on family-of-origin issues, couples at different stages of family development, parents with children at different ages, and the family as part of larger social context utilizing a strengths perspective.

S674 Couples and Family Interventions II (3 cr.) This course emphasizes family interventions on a variety of family challenges often seen in family agencies (substance abuse, violence, physical illness, mental illness, family life cycle disruption, etc.). The course reviews assessment and intervention strategies and how to build skills with a variety of family issues.

S682 Assessment in Mental Health and Addictions (3 cr.) Recognizing the social, political, legal, and ethical implications of assessment, students enrolled in this course critically examine various conceptual frameworks and apply bio-psycho-social and strengths perspectives to understand its multidimensional aspects. Students learn to conduct sophisticated mental states and lethality risk interviews, develop skills in strengths assessment and discovery and apply the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of the American Psychiatric Association and other classification schemes in formulating assessment hypotheses. They gain an understanding of the application of relevant assessment instruments and learn to evaluate their relevance for service to at-risk populations, including persons affected by mental health and addictions issues. Students learn to work effectively with consumers and other professionals in developing meaningful assessments upon which to plan goals, intervention strategies, and means for evaluation.

S683 Community-Based Practice in Mental Health and Addiction (3 cr.) Students enrolled in this course examine a wide range of community-based services provided for people with severe mental illness and/or severe addiction problems. Special attention is given to strengths-based, client-directed, and evidence-based practice models. Content includes community-based services in areas of case management, employment, housing, illness management, family, dual disorder treatment, and consumer self-help. Students also examine a range of community-based services such as ethical and legal issues, quality of care, community competence, organizational and financial factors, and other relevant policy and practice issues.

S685 Mental Health and Addictions Practice with Individuals and Families (3 cr.) Students enrolled in this course develop knowledge, values, and skills necessary for competent application of selected evidence-based best practice approaches for service for children, youth, adults, and families affected by mental health and addiction issues. Students explore topics such as risk and resilience, recovery, and relapse prevention, and consider implications of current social and policy factors affecting service delivery to persons affected by mental health and addiction issues. Students learn to discover, analyze, synthesize, and evaluate evidence of practice effectiveness and apply that knowledge in communication, strengths discovery and assessment, hypothesis formation, case management, intervention and prevention planning, service delivery, and evaluation. Students develop professional understanding and expertise in the application of at least one evidence-based approach for service to individuals and families affected by at least one specific mental health or addiction issue.

S686 Social Work Practice: Addictions (3 cr.) The purpose of this course is to provide learners with knowledge and skills relevent to various aspects of social work practice in prevention, intervention, and treatment of selected addictions. Students draw upon previous concurrent learning experiences and integrate knowledge and skills acquired in other social work courses with the course's knowledge, and skills characteristic of addictions practice. The course assists students to develop a multidimensional understanding of prevention, intervention, and treatment needs of diverse populations and associated social work practice principles, methods, and skills. Students explore the relationships between and among addiction and socioeconomic status, race, ethnicity, culture, religion, gender, sexual orientation, age, physical and mental ability, and other socio-environmental factors of vulnerability. Consistent with strengths and ecosystem perspectives, students consider the impact of social environments, physical settings, community
