Dear Colleagues,

Over the last several weeks the deans have been meeting with faculty and staff about the current economic situation and budget constraints. Please understand that your advice has been helpful to the deans and on me as we begin to set our priorities for the coming academic year. During these meetings, I will be working with the deans and the senate budget committee to maximize our fiscal flexibility. The guiding principle of any proposed budget is the continued quality of our programs. We will make our recommendations to the chancellor and to the academic community by mid-March.

Amaron Relations: The Indiana University Academic Handbook has a change in policy concerning amorous relationships. This change is being presented to you simply for the sake of information. You can view the Change Here. Dr. Vail Memorial, the University Faculty Senate, is aware of this change and will forward the Faculty Senate and the board and the Policy Office. I appreciate the feedback and advice you have here.

Re: Scholarship Website: I invite you to visit the IUSB Scholarship Web Site at www.iusb.edu/scholarships for the most up-to-date information about IUSB campus and academic institutes scholarship opportunities. Campus scholarship applications are available at the admissions office and online and many of the scholarship applications can be printed from the web site. There are links to several national scholarship web sites and a list of Ten Top Scholarship Tips. These scholarships may be of interest to students interested in education, and are supported throughout their academic career. Funding will allow recruitment and support of about 15 students per year, who will move through the program as a cohort.

Project TEAM: This initiative that has now been so well supported by the Chancellor and Dept. of Education finalists. The project began in Bloomington, spread to IUPUI and Gary, and will add IUB and IPFW this coming year.

Project TEAM was an SDI initiative that has now been supplemented by an Eisenhower grant and Dept. of Education that encourages minority students to become teachers. This project was a great strategy to recruit and retain minority students in education, and are supported throughout their academic career. Funding will allow recruitment and support of about 15 students per year, who will move through the program as a cohort.

We will gather at noon in the Board Room. Coffee will be served. The data sheet indicates the total number of students referred for the Fall 2001 semester, the number of students retained for 2002, the number of withdrawals, GPA, and outstanding withdrawals.

For additional information please consult our website: www.planning.iupui.edu.

I invite you to visit the IUSB Scholarship Web Site at www.iusb.edu/scholarships for the most up-to-date information about IUSB campus and academic institutes scholarship opportunities. Campus scholarship applications are available at the admissions office and online and many of the scholarship applications can be printed from the web site. There are links to several national scholarship web sites and a list of Ten Top Scholarship Tips. These scholarships may be of interest to students interested in education, and are supported throughout their academic career. Funding will allow recruitment and support of about 15 students per year, who will move through the program as a cohort.

Project TEAM was an SDI initiative that has now been supplemented by an Eisenhower grant and Dept. of Education that encourages minority students to become teachers. This project was a great strategy to recruit and retain minority students in education, and are supported throughout their academic career. Funding will allow recruitment and support of about 15 students per year, who will move through the program as a cohort.

We will gather at noon in the Board Room. Coffee will be served. The data sheet indicates the total number of students referred for the Fall 2001 semester, the number of students retained for 2002, the number of withdrawals, GPA, and outstanding withdrawals.

For additional information please consult our website: www.planning.iupui.edu.

I invite you to visit the IUSB Scholarship Web Site at www.iusb.edu/scholarships for the most up-to-date information about IUSB campus and academic institutes scholarship opportunities. Campus scholarship applications are available at the admissions office and online and many of the scholarship applications can be printed from the web site. There are links to several national scholarship web sites and a list of Ten Top Scholarship Tips. These scholarships may be of interest to students interested in education, and are supported throughout their academic career. Funding will allow recruitment and support of about 15 students per year, who will move through the program as a cohort.

Project TEAM was an SDI initiative that has now been supplemented by an Eisenhower grant and Dept. of Education that encourages minority students to become teachers. This project was a great strategy to recruit and retain minority students in education, and are supported throughout their academic career. Funding will allow recruitment and support of about 15 students per year, who will move through the program as a cohort.

We will gather at noon in the Board Room. Coffee will be served. The data sheet indicates the total number of students referred for the Fall 2001 semester, the number of students retained for 2002, the number of withdrawals, GPA, and outstanding withdrawals.

For additional information please consult our website: www.planning.iupui.edu.

I invite you to visit the IUSB Scholarship Web Site at www.iusb.edu/scholarships for the most up-to-date information about IUSB campus and academic institutes scholarship opportunities. Campus scholarship applications are available at the admissions office and online and many of the scholarship applications can be printed from the web site. There are links to several national scholarship web sites and a list of Ten Top Scholarship Tips. These scholarships may be of interest to students interested in education, and are supported throughout their academic career. Funding will allow recruitment and support of about 15 students per year, who will move through the program as a cohort.

Project TEAM was an SDI initiative that has now been supplemented by an Eisenhower grant and Dept. of Education that encourages minority students to become teachers. This project was a great strategy to recruit and retain minority students in education, and are supported throughout their academic career. Funding will allow recruitment and support of about 15 students per year, who will move through the program as a cohort.

We will gather at noon in the Board Room. Coffee will be served. The data sheet indicates the total number of students referred for the Fall 2001 semester, the number of students retained for 2002, the number of withdrawals, GPA, and outstanding withdrawals.

For additional information please consult our website: www.planning.iupui.edu.

I invite you to visit the IUSB Scholarship Web Site at www.iusb.edu/scholarships for the most up-to-date information about IUSB campus and academic institutes scholarship opportunities. Campus scholarship applications are available at the admissions office and online and many of the scholarship applications can be printed from the web site. There are links to several national scholarship web sites and a list of Ten Top Scholarship Tips. These scholarships may be of interest to students interested in education, and are supported throughout their academic career. Funding will allow recruitment and support of about 15 students per year, who will move through the program as a cohort.

Project TEAM was an SDI initiative that has now been supplemented by an Eisenhower grant and Dept. of Education that encourages minority students to become teachers. This project was a great strategy to recruit and retain minority students in education, and are supported throughout their academic career. Funding will allow recruitment and support of about 15 students per year, who will move through the program as a cohort.

We will gather at noon in the Board Room. Coffee will be served. The data sheet indicates the total number of students referred for the Fall 2001 semester, the number of students retained for 2002, the number of withdrawals, GPA, and outstanding withdrawals.

For additional information please consult our website: www.planning.iupui.edu.