Dear Colleagues,

The academic year is off to an exciting start. This fall we welcomed the largest freshman class in the history of IU Bloomington, a milestone that we could not have achieved without the hard work and dedication of faculty, staff, and our partners in the University. All of these are strong indicators that Indiana University Bloomington (IU Bloomington) is a destination institution and that the time is right for us to think creatively about how to position IU for success in the next decade.

The Office of Academic Affairs has begun developing a strategic plan for IU Bloomington that will be completed by 2005 and IUSB's next accreditation visit. The Office of the Associate Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs resources from your own website you should check the links to make sure they are up to date.

The current bulletins can now be found at the Academic Affairs website.

Kudos

- Muriel Shaw, Accounting, Business Administration, was recently appointed to the position of Executive Director for the American Accounting Association (AAA) for a five-year term.
- Robert B. Heid, Computer Science, has been awarded the 2002 Outstanding Service Award by the American Educational Research Association.
- Karen Ackoff of the Assessment website is at http://www.iusb.edu/~assess/.
- We are also offering to pay for students to attend the FACET conference which is being held on Friday, November 8, 2002. More information is available at:

Dear Colleagues,

The academic year is off to an exciting start. This fall we welcomed the largest freshman class in the history of IU Bloomington, a milestone that we could not have achieved without the hard work and dedication of faculty, staff, and our partners in the University. All of these are strong indicators that Indiana University Bloomington (IU Bloomington) is a destination institution and that the time is right for us to think creatively about how to position IU for success in the next decade.

The Office of Academic Affairs has begun developing a strategic plan for IU Bloomington that will be completed by 2005 and IUSB's next accreditation visit. The Office of the Associate Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs resources from your own website you should check the links to make sure they are up to date.

The current bulletins can now be found at the Academic Affairs website.

Kudos

- Muriel Shaw, Accounting, Business Administration, was recently appointed to the position of Executive Director for the American Accounting Association (AAA) for a five-year term.
- Robert B. Heid, Computer Science, has been awarded the 2002 Outstanding Service Award by the American Educational Research Association.
- Karen Ackoff of the Assessment website is at http://www.iusb.edu/~assess/.
- We are also offering to pay for students to attend the FACET conference which is being held on Friday, November 8, 2002. More information is available at:

Dear Colleagues,

The academic year is off to an exciting start. This fall we welcomed the largest freshman class in the history of IU Bloomington, a milestone that we could not have achieved without the hard work and dedication of faculty, staff, and our partners in the University. All of these are strong indicators that Indiana University Bloomington (IU Bloomington) is a destination institution and that the time is right for us to think creatively about how to position IU for success in the next decade.

The Office of Academic Affairs has begun developing a strategic plan for IU Bloomington that will be completed by 2005 and IUSB's next accreditation visit. The Office of the Associate Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs resources from your own website you should check the links to make sure they are up to date.

The current bulletins can now be found at the Academic Affairs website.

Kudos

- Muriel Shaw, Accounting, Business Administration, was recently appointed to the position of Executive Director for the American Accounting Association (AAA) for a five-year term.
- Robert B. Heid, Computer Science, has been awarded the 2002 Outstanding Service Award by the American Educational Research Association.
- Karen Ackoff of the Assessment website is at http://www.iusb.edu/~assess/.
- We are also offering to pay for students to attend the FACET conference which is being held on Friday, November 8, 2002. More information is available at:

Dear Colleagues,

The academic year is off to an exciting start. This fall we welcomed the largest freshman class in the history of IU Bloomington, a milestone that we could not have achieved without the hard work and dedication of faculty, staff, and our partners in the University. All of these are strong indicators that Indiana University Bloomington (IU Bloomington) is a destination institution and that the time is right for us to think creatively about how to position IU for success in the next decade.

The Office of Academic Affairs has begun developing a strategic plan for IU Bloomington that will be completed by 2005 and IUSB's next accreditation visit. The Office of the Associate Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs resources from your own website you should check the links to make sure they are up to date.

The current bulletins can now be found at the Academic Affairs website.

Kudos

- Muriel Shaw, Accounting, Business Administration, was recently appointed to the position of Executive Director for the American Accounting Association (AAA) for a five-year term.
- Robert B. Heid, Computer Science, has been awarded the 2002 Outstanding Service Award by the American Educational Research Association.
- Karen Ackoff of the Assessment website is at http://www.iusb.edu/~assess/.
- We are also offering to pay for students to attend the FACET conference which is being held on Friday, November 8, 2002. More information is available at:

Dear Colleagues,

The academic year is off to an exciting start. This fall we welcomed the largest freshman class in the history of IU Bloomington, a milestone that we could not have achieved without the hard work and dedication of faculty, staff, and our partners in the University. All of these are strong indicators that Indiana University Bloomington (IU Bloomington) is a destination institution and that the time is right for us to think creatively about how to position IU for success in the next decade.

The Office of Academic Affairs has begun developing a strategic plan for IU Bloomington that will be completed by 2005 and IUSB's next accreditation visit. The Office of the Associate Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs resources from your own website you should check the links to make sure they are up to date.

The current bulletins can now be found at the Academic Affairs website.

Kudos

- Muriel Shaw, Accounting, Business Administration, was recently appointed to the position of Executive Director for the American Accounting Association (AAA) for a five-year term.
- Robert B. Heid, Computer Science, has been awarded the 2002 Outstanding Service Award by the American Educational Research Association.
- Karen Ackoff of the Assessment website is at http://www.iusb.edu/~assess/.
- We are also offering to pay for students to attend the FACET conference which is being held on Friday, November 8, 2002. More information is available at:

Dear Colleagues,

The academic year is off to an exciting start. This fall we welcomed the largest freshman class in the history of IU Bloomington, a milestone that we could not have achieved without the hard work and dedication of faculty, staff, and our partners in the University. All of these are strong indicators that Indiana University Bloomington (IU Bloomington) is a destination institution and that the time is right for us to think creatively about how to position IU for success in the next decade.

The Office of Academic Affairs has begun developing a strategic plan for IU Bloomington that will be completed by 2005 and IUSB's next accreditation visit. The Office of the Associate Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs resources from your own website you should check the links to make sure they are up to date.

The current bulletins can now be found at the Academic Affairs website.

Kudos

- Muriel Shaw, Accounting, Business Administration, was recently appointed to the position of Executive Director for the American Accounting Association (AAA) for a five-year term.
- Robert B. Heid, Computer Science, has been awarded the 2002 Outstanding Service Award by the American Educational Research Association.
- Karen Ackoff of the Assessment website is at http://www.iusb.edu/~assess/.
- We are also offering to pay for students to attend the FACET conference which is being held on Friday, November 8, 2002. More information is available at: