Dear Colleagues,

The national goals of the last several decades have not defeated our resolve to make upper-division and graduate education more accessible, affordable, and available to more American students. As we look back on the past academic year, we are confident that Indiana University South Bend has continued to lead the way in providing and improving educational opportunities and resources.

One Book, One Campus.

Kudos

Curriculum Development Grants for the 2005-06 academic year.

The application deadline is October 31, 2005.

The R&D centers, and much more. Three UCET grants are currently open for application:

UCET is serving as the gateway for our newly established campus contract with the Indiana University system to promote a healthy community for the IU South Bend students. As a native New Orleans resident, I was deeply moved by this gesture of humanitarian aid by our faculty and students. On behalf of the entire campus, I offer heartfelt thanks to the faculty and students who accompanied Evans and Rose and the students who accompanied them.

Please send us any of your suggestions on additional questions or majors to discuss the Constitution and its relevance in our modern society.

Assessment

Application forms are now available for Assessment Grants. These grants are available to any faculty member who would like to undertake an assessment project for their program. For the past two years, Assessment Consultants have sponsored assessment projects, which have ranged from as small as a single faculty member to as large as a multi-campus assessment project. The assessment instruments have never been granted funds in $10,000. Guidelines and application forms are available for assessment projects on the following websites:

http://www.iusb.edu/~hr/assessment/assessment.shtml

We also welcome a student who is attending IUSB this fall, Brian Woodard, from the University of New Orleans.

I am pleased to announce that the second year of the IU South Bend Health and Safety Project, "One Book, One Campus," is underway.

The conference is designed to be pedagogically general so that participants can participate in workshops and present their ideas. The conference is open to any faculty member who would like to undertake an assessment project for their program. The application deadline is October 31, 2005.

For those who were not able to attend the workshop, Dr. N. D. K. Culbertson: culbert@iusb.edu

Please send us any of your suggestions on additional questions or majors to
