The Senate General Education Committee met on a monthly basis in 2008-2009. Since this was a newly formed committee, we spent a substantial amount of time talking about the committee’s responsibilities and its relationship with the director of General Education. As the committee members became familiar with the procedures and the requirements for the different categories of the General Education curriculum, the Committee started considering course requests electronically, as well as in the monthly face-to-face meetings. Also, in the Spring 2009, the Committee members engaged in a preliminary discussion of assessment of the General Education curriculum.
